

Resilient Readers

Exploring Books – and Life – with Boldness and Compassion

The Resilient Readers Book Club is a space to connect and enjoy reading in a new way – no pressure, no perfection, just community. Whether you're in treatment, navigating survivorship, supporting a loved one, or caring for patients, you'll find a circle that understands the complexity of the cancer experience while embracing the full spectrum of life beyond it.

Every other month, we gather virtually to discuss books that encourage reflection, spark inspiration, offer comfort, and open the door to meaningful conversation. Our selections span genres and perspectives, reminding us that resilience is shaped by many kinds of stories.

The club is moderated by Cindy Trice, cancer survivor and co-founder/chief innovation officer at KickIt Recovery Wear. Cindy “gets it” and brings empathy, humor, and lived experience to each discussion – creating a space where every voice is valued and every perspective matters.

Take a little “me time” to settle in with our current read, and join a community that celebrates resiliency, courage, curiosity, and connection – one chapter at a time.
